Hello Future Capstone Graduates!

Welcome to AP Seminar and your first year in the AP Capstone Program. I am excited that you have chosen to tackle the Capstone challenge. I hope you have lots of time to relax and unwind this summer, but I would also like you to start thinking like a researcher. Some of you may already think this way naturally--that's fantastic! Others of you probably used to think like this when you were younger, but you've grown too busy to ask 'why' so often. Over the next few weeks, I'm asking you to awaken that curious researcher inside and record your thinking a little so that we can hit the ground running with our research in August. One important aspect of being a research is having an awareness of current events from around the world. This will be our primary focus for your summer work.

AP Seminar summer work consists of THREE parts: current event research, research on a topic, learning important terms.

Please read ALL instructions on the document linked below to be sure that you understand the expectations. Should you have any questions or concerns, please email me at akers.angela.c@muscogee.k12.ga.us I check school email on a weekly basis during the summer.

Access your summer work document at:

Remember, you are to do the summer work for AP Seminar ONLY. You do not have to read the novel listed for 10th English (unless you just want to read it). Summer work should be completed by the first day of class.

See you soon!
